

Doing Accounting History

Contributions to the Development of Accounting Thought

Studies in the Development of Accounting Thought

Richard K. Fleischman
Vaughan S. Radcliffe
Paul A.R.K. Shoemaker

About the Book

This is a collection of eleven essays authored by prominent accounting historians and designed to aid potential as well as experienced researchers in the methodologies and resources available for scholarly work in accounting history. The project, of which this book is the end product, has the full endorsement and backing of the Academy of Accounting Historians. Chapters on resources include the finding and utilization of archival materials (including ancient forms); the growing importance of the Internet in historical research and the Accounting Research Database as a vital, contemporary finding aid; the possibilities for joint venturing with accounting practitioners and their organizations; and the pivotal influence and immediacy of oral history. Methodological chapters explore the advantages and pitfalls of archival research; the synergistic relationships that exist between accounting and economic history, including business history and capital-markets research; the techniques for doing biography; and the issues involved in writing to historical paradigms.

Format: Hardback

Pagination: 240

Price:

£101.99 $181.99 €143.99

Publication Date:

6th Jun 2003

ISBN: 9780762309832

Enjoy 30% off this ebook with code EME30 on ebooks.com or off the print book when placing an order via booksales@emerald.com and quoting the code EME30.